STIMULANTS VS. COLDS.

The Idea is Right, but the Interpretation Wrong.

Alcohol stimulates for a short time-but after that, reaction. You're worse off than before. You're coller. You're more likely to catch cold.

This is why Maked-Koffee-Kola is the only successful stimulant. Only food can give strength. Food is the origin of strength. Softmary stimulants call up reserve strength. A food simulant creates it.

Maited-Koffee-Kola is a Shaker preparation made of the multed seeds of Oaffee and of Kola. The virtues of these plants give to it its etimulating properties. The maiting of the seeds make it a valuable, digestible, strengthening food.

President of the Cuban Republic and His Career.

HE WAS A SPANISH NOBLEMAN

But Relinquished His Title for Cub Sake-Ran a Newspaper Until Spaniards Drove Him Off-Later He Kept a Little Cigar Shop in New York City.

New York Press: You may have bought cigars or cigarettes from the president of the new Cuban republic. He has blue blood in his veins, this man He is a Spanish nobleman, although he has relinquished his title in order to se oure his place in Western democracy.
Salvador Cisneros, Marquis di Santa Lucia, was, not many years ago, the keeper of a digar store in Eight avenue, between Thirty-first and Thirty-second seeper of a digar store in Eight avenue, between Thirty-first and Thirty-second streets, on the west side of the avenue. The Marquis dl Santa Lucia came to New York penniless when the peace of Campos was made. Scandal has not been silent about him, it has been assected that he was one of the pald-off patriots who relinquished bhe cause for gold, when Campos neigotiated the treaty of Zanjon. This is, according to the testimony of all the friends, and even of the enemies of the marquis, an absurdity, and a lie.

J. M. Aguero, a cigar manufacturer of No. 56 Fulton street, is a personal friend of Cisneros. He was a proofread-or to the marquis when the marquis owned a newspaper.

He worked for the marguis at Puerto

He worked for the marquis at Puerto Principe. The newspaper was called "El Camaguey," It was in a flourishing condition about 1865. It was an exceedingly interesting well callted paper, and had, for the times and in the circumstances, a large cir-called paper, and had, for the times and in the circumstances, a large circulation.

The press was driven by mule power. Pechaps you have seen the old thresh-ling mills, worked by a crank arrangement, run in a ring. This is how the newspaper of the president of the Cuban republic was printed. The press was good, and the velocity of the printing depended on the mule that drew the "go-around" thing.

"El Camaguey" was rather free spo-ken-too much so for the taste of the Spaniards in authority. Two years before the beginning of the war that ended in that funny "peace" brought about by Campos, which gave promise of reform, and, some people say, of money, to a great many Cubans, the Spaniards destroyed the printing establishment of the marquis.

In the graphic language of Aguero, "The Marquis di Santa Lucia, he told me one day to take proofs to the Spanish governor, who always revised them "What you come so late for?" said the governor. One of the editors is sick," said I. He say, I make them all sick, pretty soon. Every one of you will die in a high place, my boy," And you understand what he means by high place, heb? Crircick!

in a high place, my boy. And you understand what he means by high place, heh? Crrrchck!

"Well, the Spaniards one day raided the printing office. They took the types, and kicked them into the street. They took the mile and gave a few skrokes of the lash to him, and then he ran away, and that was the last of our printing power. When the peace was made with Campos, Cheros came here to New York. Every one that was on the paper of the marquis served in the war. I had to fee to the United States, When he came here he sought me out, and I gave employment to his son, who must have been about fourteen or fitten years old.

"At that time I was at No. 246 Sixth avenue, where I was until five years ago.

avenue, where I was until live years ago.

"Then the marquis himself started the cigar store in Eighth avenue, between Thirty-first and Thirty-second streets. He did not need money to start. Everybody trusted him. He did not take any money from Campos. He used to have one or two men making cigars, but he never had a place on a large scale. His son, poor fellow, died here.

"His estates were finally released by "His estates were finally released by "His estates were finally released by Spain. His property was restored to him, and he returned to Cuba after he had been in New York about two years. He never resumed his tille of marquis after the first war. He always signs himself Salvador Claneros. But you may depend upon it that he is a hereditary Spanish marquis. He was born in Puerto Principe. That is what makes him a Cuban. Spaniards in Cuba cannot make their children Spaniards. They are bound to be Cubans. Look at Marti. He was the son of a Spaniard. Where could you find a more patriotic Cuban?

Cuban?

"That is the origin of the saying, "The Spaniards can do anything in Cuba, except make Spaniards of their children. That they cannot do."

"President Cisneros is about sixty-five years old. He is rugged and healthy in mind and body. He must be happy to have his headquarters in Puerto Principe, the place of his birth. I am sure that he otten thinks of the day when the Spaniards made pi of his type and stampeded the mule that provided the power for his printing press."

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Jan. 25.—A man who had claimed to be Count Gustav Carolafield, aged about 27 years, was found dead in 'bed this morning at the Schrieber hotel. Allegheny. It was learned later that he had taken about 4½ ounces of chloroform to accomplish suicide. He left a letter addressed to his mother, the Countess Marguerite d. Hanssonville, palace French ambassador, Russia. In his letter he says he had expected his mother's last letter to contain her forgiveness for something not mentioned. As it did not come, he concludded to end all. As the alleged count was without funds, the city will bury him.
